Efficiency and growth

DSG-Canusa, a member of the brand portfolio owned by Canada's Mattr, is making strategic moves by modernizing, expanding, and relocating elements of its North American manufacturing footprint to a larger, more efficient facility in Fairfield, Ohio.

This new, supply-chain friendly location, adjacent to Cincinnati's I-275 loop, houses the business's North American distribution hub and leverages proximity to vendors and customers. A testament to Ohio's diverse economy, DSG-Canusa manufactures high-quality heat and cold shrink tubing products and accessories for multiple sectors including automotive, communications, electrical utility, electronic and energy markets.

This Canadian investment in Ohio creates local jobs and supports the state as an important manufacturing location.

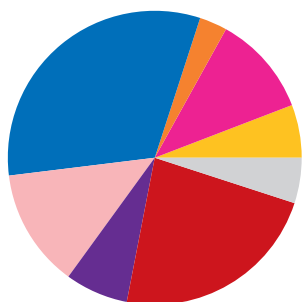

289 Canadian-owned companies employ 28,650 workers in Ohio

Fueling our future

Ohio's top import from Canada is crude petroleum and this contributes to job creation, energy security, and affordability throughout the Midwest. Calgary-based Cenovus Energy Inc announced plans to expand its headquarters in Dublin, Ohio which will add 115 technical and professional services jobs to the more than 1,200 Ohioans already employed by Cenovus. The move parallels Cenovus' decision to invest an additional $1.5 billion in a pair of refineries that it operates in Toledo and Lima. Cenovus' Lima Refinery is the longest-running continuously operating oil refinery in the U.S. while its Toledo Refinery is more than 100 years old. Cenovus' investments will further enhance those refineries, expand its Ohio-based workforce and unleash Ohio's energy.

Predictions of future expansion for Magna Seating Columbus, which got its start in 2019, have come true. The company's initial $60 million investment received a boost of $6 million in 2022 in order to expand production of seat structures for the automotive industry. The investment will boost economic activity in the region, adding over 200 workers to the 390 existing jobs in Lancaster. This is just one of five operations the Canadian-owned Magna has in the Buckeye State. In total, Magna employs approximately 2,700 Ohioans.
